

Yerkes, representing the Independent Tobacco Manufacturers' Association. Hunter declared that 600,000 independent retail tobacco dealers in the country, many seriously affected by the tobacco trust, saw in the plan of reorganization no assurance of ending the crushing system that had been grinding them. His clients, he said, urged the court to order a receivership to bring about "a fair and honest termination of the trust."

Mr. Brandeis addressed the court in support of objections to the reorganization plan filed by the National Cigar Leaf Tobacco Association, the Cigar Manufacturers' Association and the Independent Tobacco Salesmen's Association. Mr. Brandeis said that there was no difference of opinion as to the demand of the Supreme Court that either the products of the trust be enjoined and a receiver appointed or a reorganization agreed upon. He declared that the time for the integration of these companies, this trust, as the present time, to-day, if we are to have fair competition, have distinct ownership.

Pictures Growers' Poverty. Representing the North Carolina growers' Union, Attorney Justice declared the poverty of the tobacco growers of that State since the formation of the tobacco trust and destruction of competition. "In proportion as those defendants have accumulated their vast wealth, which they have hoarded, the rights in that proportion have the tobacco growers of North Carolina lost the accumulation of competitive times," said Mr. Justice.

He said the farmers saw nothing in the proposed plan that would change their common law. "No doubt," he continued, "that these twenty-nine defendants can appeal to common stockholders successfully to secure elections of advantageous directors as they now can to assure election for themselves." The North Carolina counsel declared he had not much confidence in the desires of the tobacco trust defendants to obey the law, and that the only remedy for conditions was a sale of the defendants' assets by a receiver.

Judges Jacob, Ward, Cox and Noyes, who are hearing the arguments, took an active part in the discussion. When the arguments are concluded it is expected that the judges will take the case under advisement for some time before announcing a decision.

FROM WASHTUB TO $45 A DAY ON OIL

Gushing Petroleum Well in Woman's Dooryard Changes Viewpoint of Life.

Canonsburg, Pa., October 30.—"They've struck a gusher, mom; we're rich!" shouted Mrs. May Wilson Bush's seven-year-old son Saturday night, as he told the news to his mother, who was wearily rubbing at a washboard.

Mrs. Bush, who, since her husband's death four years ago, has eked out a scanty living for herself and three small children, almost collapsed when, following the boy out to where an oil well was being drilled in the back yard of her little property in Ridge Avenue, she saw a great greenish gold stream pouring into the tank.

The flow during the first twenty-four hours was 500 barrels, and Mrs. Bush's share of the one day's production is about $45. As soon as possible the well will be drilled deeper, and probably "shot" with a prospect of increasing the flow. The well is the first of its kind in the town lot development begun here last summer.

Following the drilling in the "Bush gusher" a dozen more locations were made, and all excitement is running high. Every day the small size of some lots it is necessary to use two lots in erecting a rig.

The present production on the field is close to 1,000 barrels a day; but this is expected to be increased to 2,000 barrels a day, and in some cases to 3,000 barrels a day. The small size of some lots it is necessary to use two lots in erecting a rig.

Operators are here from Pittsburgh, Butler, Washington and other nearby fields, and in some cases the oil is being sold for small lots. The strike in the Bush well was made just as the others were about to stop work and abandon the well as a "duster."

"Berry's for Clothes"

We have "figgered" it all over. It's common-sense economy for any man to buy two suits at the same time.

In the first place by wearing them alternately they will wear longer than three suits bought separately.

Again the two-suit man has variety and the effect of being better dressed.

This applies particularly to the man accustomed to paying a custom tailor $60 and $68 for a suit.

Two of our $30 suits will make a far better-dressed man of him, and in addition to often a BETTER fit he'll have some variety.

Try it out.

GET NEW EVIDENCE AGAINST PASTOR

It May Be Presented to Grand Jury at To-Day's Session.

NATURE IS KEPT SECRET

Preliminary Hearing of Richeson on Murder Charge Scheduled for This Morning.

Boston, October 30.—The third day's session of the grand jury investigation of charges against the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson for the alleged murder of Avis Linnell, a former sweetheart, was brought to an early adjournment to-day by the desire of the district attorney to look up what is believed to be important new evidence.

The nature of the new testimony is not known, but its probable importance may be judged from the fact that Assistant District Attorney Lavell and Police Captain Armstrong were sent by District Attorney Fletcher to secure it for presentation to-morrow. The identity of the persons to be examined was kept secret.

The fact that there was possible new evidence became known to the district attorney's office only this afternoon.

Richeson's preliminary hearing is scheduled for to-morrow morning, the date on which he was to have been married to Miss Violet Edmonds, a wealthy Brookline heiress. It will be in the municipal court. The defendant is expected to plead in person to the charge of murder, and it is probable that the government will ask a continuance until the grand jurors have reported. On the other hand, it is understood that the defense will press for an immediate hearing. An indictment would take the matter out of the lower courts.

Archbishop Falconio Receives Official Communication From Rome.

AN AMERICAN POPE?

Believed Way for This Great Honor Now Is Being Paved.

Washington, D. C., October 30.—Archbishop Falconio, papal delegate to the United States, received an official communication early to-day from Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state in Rome, announcing that he (Falconio) will be elevated to the dignity of the cardinalate at the consistory to take place in the Eternal City November 27. Cardinal del Val also announced in the message that Archbishop Farley, of New York, and Archbishop O'Connell, of Boston, will be elevated to the college of cardinals at the same time. He named Mgr. Donavento Cerretti, auditor of the papal legation for some years past, as charge d'affaires here until a new delegate is chosen.

Will sail for Europe November 10. Archbishop Falconio was in an especially happy frame of mind over the news from Rome to-day, and announced that he will leave New York November 10, so as to arrive in Rome in time for the consistory.

"As you are a naturalized citizen of the United States, archbishop, cannot this country claim three of the new cardinals to be created?" the archbishop was asked.

The query caused the archbishop to smile. He nodded a half-way assent and kept on smiling, but did not say that he should be classed as an American cardinal.

When asked if he would live in this country, he replied: "I do not believe I will live in this country," and his tones were distinctly those indicative of levitating. He also declared that the question of his future residence will be settled after the consistory is over and he has received the red hat of a cardinal.
